Jason Karnitz has been involved in training at the Spokane County Sheriff's Office since 2009, when he became a Field Training Officer (FTO). Jason spent over five years working as a Field Training Officer. Of the dozens of full-time and reserve deputies that he has personally trained, many have become FTO's themselves. Jason currently works with the Motor Unit at the Sheriff's Office and is no longer an FTO.

At the present time, Jason is the lead Radar and Lidar Instructor for the Spokane County Sheriff's Office, in the State of Washington. Also, he is currently the Co-Lead EVOC Instructor and has completed the IADLEST PIT Instructor course as well. Jason's duties as an EVOC instructor include: working with the Lead Instructor to bring new and better training to the department; planning and organizing In-Service training, which includes course development, and insuring students know how to safely and effectively operate their assigned vehicles.
