

Scott N. Smarsh

Scott Smarsh is a retired NJ law enforcement professional after serving 26 years. During his career he was assigned to Patrol, Community Services, Traffic and Training Divisions. He was also a lead firearms instructor on multiple weapons platforms, armorer, Assistant Range Master, Tactical Combat Casualty Instructor, Active Threat Instructor, Tactics/CQB instructor and a SWAT/RDT member.

Scott has served as the assistant coordinator for several large scale, multi-jurisdictional active threat training scenarios as well as offering consultation in the planning and execution of outside agency's large scale training events.

He is an Active Threat liaison and Critical Infrastructure advisor, assisting in coordination and critique of active threat response drills and threat assessment/target hardening for both public and private entities which include houses of worship, educational facilities, business complex's, hospitals, nursing facilities and daycare centers.